Home Page - Menu

The screenshot shows the website smsn.org.uk with the URL smsn.epizy.com in the browser address bar. The page features a navigation menu with items: Home, About, Forum, News, Events, Meetings Documents, Men's Sheds, Videos, and Downloads (NEW). The main heading is "Southern Men's Shed Network (Supporting Men's Shed in the Southern Region)". Below this, there is a section titled "Men's Sheds in the Southern Region" with a link to "Click HERE to view Full Screen Map." A map of the southern region of England is displayed, showing various shed locations marked with numbered blue circles. A red-bordered box highlights the navigation menu and the "Men's Sheds in the Southern Region" heading. Red arrows point from the text "Click to go to the required web page" to the "Men's Sheds" menu item and the highlighted heading. At the bottom, there is a section for the "Next Network Meeting" on Tuesday 19th April 2022 at 11:00 am, with refreshments from 10:30am, at the Church Crookham Community Centre, Boyce Rd, Church Crookham, Fleet (GU52 8AQ).

Andover Men's Shed.

- With the help of Louisa Rice from TVBC and Gemma Frear from Aster Community, they found us a building that we could use as a Men's Shed, which is on the site of Enham Trust at Enham Alamein in 2015.
- Which was great for the members to work on, and get it cleaned out and put it into some sort of order.
- There was a lot of things in the building that had to be removed.

Hi Shedders and Supporters,

On our Southern Men's Shed Network Website (www.smsn.org.uk) we now have a Discussion Forum.

But what is a Discussion Forum?

But what about Registration and Security?

How to Register?

Forum related Explanations – Click to Expand

Discussion Forum

But what is a Discussion Forum?

Well you may have already used one without knowing it.

E.g. Streetlife, Support Sites, Online Clubs or Interest Groups etc.

Basically they are parts of websites which allow you to raise Topics (or Questions) which others can then read and offer comments (or Answers).

You can also look at other people's Topics and add your own comments.

Each Topic and its associated comments is called a Discussion Thread.

Hence: A Discussion Forum or Message Board.

Discussion Forum

Discussion Forum Structure.

In order to group the Topics into areas of commonality these Forums are usually organised into a number of separate Discussion Areas (called sub-forums).

Depending on the breadth of the subjects covered they may form a hierarchical or tree-like structure.

For example, let's imagine a Ford Car Owners Club.
They may have a website with a Discussion Forum Page.

- This would be the Main Ford Car Owners Club Discussion Forum.

But within this main page there maybe entries which point to Sub-Forums for each Car Type.

- Ka,
- Fiesta,
- Focus, Mondeo etc.

It is also possible for the Sub-Forums to have Sub-Forums of their own (and so on).

- Fuel Type,
- Manual
- Auto
- Year / Version etc.

Discussion Forum

Discussion Forum User Entries.

Once you have clicked through to the area of interest, you will be able to see Topics and Replies previously made by Forum Users. (You do not need to Register to VIEW existing items)

If you see a topic or reply which you would like to respond to, you can click on the Reply link and type in your own response.

Or, if you want to raise a new Topic make sure you are on the first page of the area of interest and then click the New Topic link. This will start a new page for your Topic and this is where any replies will be shown.

NOTE: To be able to enter your own replies or new topics, you will need to be Registered.

I wouldn't have a clue as to their use but there are about 6 dustbin bags full, there are so many that I don't think that our Shed will manage to use all of them but some members have some nice ideas and there are some real doozies in the collection. If you or your colleagues are interested then take your pick and for a small donation to shed funds they can be yours.

Well Chris, at first I thought someone had hacked our forum, pretending to be Fareham Shed. But I see from your website that these are a genuine donation from Hampshire Constabulary. I will be very interested to see what our sheds can come up with. Maybe a small item at a future network meeting.

Steve Redrup.
